To be eternally lived

Her crumpled clothes still lies on her beloved bed

Her uncombed stands of hair lying still

They are not strands of shredded shrouds

But create the wave of tumultuous lived lives of moments …of minutes…the hands of the clock lying still

To be unwound by her alone to live…to be eternally lived