

NULL & VOID | OJASWINI TRIVEDI

Null & Void

Quoting nothingness

In his eyes

I find myself craving

I look at him and I say

I beg you to love me

Maybe tomorrow doesn't exist
Maybe we get lost in our little world of sadness
I lay here
Next to you
Your back turned towards me
I count the moles
The freckles
The lines
I'm trying to remember
I'm trying to remember you
Your chest rises
with every breath
And with every breath
I sink
The night feels long
The blanket is cold
An inch apart.
We're just an inch apart
Yet
Here you are Yet
Here I am
I take your arm
Entwine my fingers
I whisper, "You are mine."
And you,
You're lost in a fantasy
A dream maybe
Where I cease to exist.
You seem peaceful,
I seem greedy.
Maybe I should go?
But this was home
You were my home.
...I'm stranded.
I try to remember your face

Like patterns?
Did I engrave myself onto you?
Indent, charr?
Anything?
You'll wake up
Wash me off of you
And I'll lay here
Thinking,
Was I that easy to forget?