

PALLAVI MISHRA

A manager by chance and a dreamer by choice! A voracious self – explorer, a vivid learner and a passionate traveller sums Pallavi. Coming from a typical middle class Bihari family, she has been certified as a “Rebel” by her folks. A Delhi University Graduate after working for few years in different industries went to one of the most colourful cities in the world called London to pursue Masters in Business Administration. The stay in the Queen’s land not only earned her a degree, but she also discovered her passion for photography, wine tasting and cooking. She has also started and remained editor – in – chief of an employee magazine at her previous company for more than a year. Stagebuzz is the next step in her pursuit of self – exploration!