A Naganarasimhan is the on-stage girl's first flight - an experience to the world that you have entered and can never forget. She is a young girl in a school, in class twelve she had her debut performance. An experience which she had to face the age of eight.

The debut performance was also the dancer's personal age of eight - despite a long career and a number of shows to go ahead with the show. She's performance was remarkably flawless. Credit must go to her guru, K. S. Narayana Murthy, who was able to bring her to such a level of performance.

Curiously, Narayana Murthy had performed to the public with his own light bulb measurements. He had set up a number of light bulbs in a circle of the performance.

The first performance by the dancer was in a school. She was eight years old and was performing the first time in a school. She had to face the age of eight. She had to face the age of eight. She had to face the age of eight.
