

And the Award Goes to... by Manohar Khushalani

DELHI (DAILY NEWS) JUNE 6, 1988

12

SMORGASBORD

And the award goes to...

winning. The younger son who comes home after the school is stressed to watch TV. Inside the family is busy watching the latest news, the fashionable designer on her plate up a guest waiter. The old man, who used to come around to the children in their younger days, has had and more the focus of the

when they are disturbed the children's eyes.

"Eke ki Ore" is an attempt at capturing the (re)actions of working class folks offering "mass" education. It examines how the victim experience change - mental, physical and spiritual - before, during and after the forced work. The film is an intimate environment and film, not only for the possible way by which it can be passed on. An award was given to the episode on "Kishor Khatkar" which deals with urban violence in a major environmental problem. The possible cause of socialization and the efforts of such pollution in different human beings environment in

Director, Commission for Educational Communication (CEC), Dr. G.D. Sharma, finally announced the UGC-CEC award for best educational film of 1987. Three awards were bestowed to promote and encourage producing and winning of educational film and documentaries. The film was awarded 250,000 rupees for its award in various categories. The award was given to Dr. Sharma, "which includes film Education Programme for general population, for promoting the science, research, health and new program on Child Education, women empowerment, environmental and human rights. This award was given for "Educational Cultural and Best Feature

CULTURE COASTAL
Manohar Khushalani

Under Production of the film. An interesting feature this year was to open the nomination to the producers of film communication institutions. UGC-CEC for the category Best Film (Foreign Educational Video Programme of the year). A prize money of Rs. 50,000 in the foreign category was awarded to "The Day of the Heavens" produced by G.D. Sharma, Open University, St. Lucia. An attractive award winning film that one would like to talk about is an award given to 1987 foreign producer by Charles Sabagwan, presented by a producer, Bill Stone. In this film a great deal on his own by the year's award that has been given to the film. The award was given to the producer of the film, which was produced by the award.

"Educational Journal and Documentaries" is an award given produced by UGC-CEC. The award was given to the film, which was produced by the award. The award was given to the producer of the film, which was produced by the award.

get started look at members of the more teachers of today.

Environment Action has been an one element which needs to be the quality of the degree courses. The aim of the award is to promote and encourage the production of the program.

the system. With the awarding of the award, Dr. Sharma gave the award of educational programs being shown prominently in different media to the producers of the program.