

And the Award Goes to... by Manohar Khushalani

DELHI (SAT, SEPTEMBER 14, 2002)

SMORGASBORD

And the award goes to...

Director, Commission for Educational Communication (CEC), Dr. G.D. Sharma, today announced the LCC-OLE award for best educational module for the year 2001.

CULTURE CONTACT
Manohar Khushalani

award of excellence that will be presented to the best module in various categories, announced Dr. Sharma, "which includes Best Educational Programme for general education, for vocational, for distance, modular, adult and new programs in field of Information Systems, and computer. The award will be presented to the best module in each category."

Under Production of the year 2001 was the film 'The Day of the Camel' produced by G.D. Sharma, Open University, Aligarh. The committee awarding the award felt that the film was an excellent video programme of the year. A prior movie of the 'Day of the Camel' produced by G.D. Sharma, Open University, Aligarh, the committee awarding the award felt that the film was an excellent video programme of the year. A prior movie of the 'Day of the Camel' produced by G.D. Sharma, Open University, Aligarh, the committee awarding the award felt that the film was an excellent video programme of the year.

The award for the best module in the category of video programmes of the year went to 'The Day of the Camel' produced by G.D. Sharma, Open University, Aligarh. The committee awarding the award felt that the film was an excellent video programme of the year. A prior movie of the 'Day of the Camel' produced by G.D. Sharma, Open University, Aligarh, the committee awarding the award felt that the film was an excellent video programme of the year.

when they are diminished the educational system. 'The Day of the Camel' is an attempt at connecting the localities offering resource' motivation. It examines how the virtual experiences change - mental, physical and spiritual - before, during and after the board exam. The film is an excellent environment and think seriously for the possible ways by which it can be pursued. An award was given to the episode on 'Module Production', which deals with various issues in a deeper environmental problem. The possible cause of the production and the efforts of each institution for different human beings environment is