Mannu Bhandari's Play: Mahabhoj

Playwright: Mannu Bhandari Translator: Viplob Pratik

Director: Anup Baral

Group: Mandala Theatre, Nepal

Language: Nepali

Duration: 2 hrs 20 mins

The Play

Mannu Bhandari tells a story of how politics, press and police are connected with each other, and how the vulnerable voiceless people are caged in a 'chakravyuha'. She has scripted this play from her popular novel Mahabhoj. The news of a death in the village and violent activities happening around, spread to the city, influencing the media and setting fire in the centre of politics and police force. Will that fire calm down or become a burning coal of questions?

Director's Note

The picture of social and political conflicts experienced by the society should be reflected on the canvas of theatre in a lively way. This is my trust, and that trust has stimulated me to choose Mahabhoj. Politics is one of the finest practices in governance. But, if it is guided by corrupt thoughts, its nexus leads the society towards a weak state. Mahabhoj is the mirror of that corrupt nexus.

This is my ensemble with three generations of artists which I believe has created a new dynamics. I have tried to explore the painting techniques of renaissance period in this play. Chiaroscuro and Sfumato have been used in light design. I wanted to retell the story of Mahabhoj as if we are seeing contemporary events in a historical time frame. Almost monochromatic costumes, sets and props used in the play are a conscious choice.

The Director

Anup Baral is a renowned theatre director, actor and concept artist from Nepal. He has a master's degree in acting from the National School of Drama, New Delhi, India.
