

To be eternally lived

Her crumpled clothes still lies on her beloved bed Her uncombed strands of hair lying still
They are not strands of shredded shrouds
But create the wave of tumultuous lived lives of moments ...of minutes...the hands of the clock lying still To be unwound by her alone to live...to be eternally lived