Agnijatak

The Play

The play Agnijatak concerns children who are the future citizens of the world and who happen to be the most marginalised beings as they are exposed to both emotional and physical threats. Being vulnerable and defenceless, they cannot fight the atrocities by adults. The play addresses the burning issues of the globe through allegory. Monika, the protagonist hears from her unborn child that no baby is to be born in this ghastly world anymore. The foetus disturbingly questions the mother about the atrocities taking place worldwide. Throughout the interaction between the mother and the unborn child we get to see this planet in a horrifying light. The play ends in an optimistic note where all hope is yet not lost.

Director's Note

Through directing this play I found an opportunity to convey the disturbing thoughts that come to a thinking mind while observing the terrible degeneration of the world both by physical and metaphysical parameters. Since the play addresses the issues of atrocities, which is becoming a global phenomenon, I, on principle tried to give it a look which is not area, geo or locale specific. Only time is specific here because the acts captured in this play are very much contemporary. I worked with a big cast which is always challenging for a play which is organically intimate. Though this play has elements of an adult fairy tale, I intentionally crafted pieces of news highlighting the morbidities happening worldwide to transform this play from surreal to real, from soul to skin, from the world of fantasy to the burning realities.

Gullakayajji

The Play

The story reflects the triumph of Ahimsa (Non Violence) against Himsa (Violence). The play begins with Bhagavatamela singing the story of Bharata and Bahubali, sons of the First Jaina Thirtankara – Rishabadeva to Chavundaraya, the Commander-in-Chief of the Western Ganga dynasty of Talkad. After hearing the story, Chavundaraya and Kalaladevi (His mother) wishes to go to Poudhanapura. The same night, Goddesses appear in their dreams and tells to erect a statue of Bahubali at Shravanabelagola . . . When Chavundaraya made the elaborate arrangements to perform the abhisheka of Bahubali, the milk did not descend lower than the thighs. But when guru directed him to use for anointment the little milk brought by a pious old woman in a Gullakayi, it instantly ran down all over the statue in streams and covered the hill. It is said that Gullakayajji or the Granny holding the Gullakayi was the Goddess Padmavati, who, in order to break the pride of Chavundaraya, appeared at the time of the anointment in the guise of a poor old woman. According to another tradition she was the mythological Kushmandini.

Director's Note

The Play Gullakayajji written by Dr Chandrashekhara Kambara is unique in its way and is written on historical lines. At the times when communism and terrorism mock at the world, this play preaches peace and universal brotherhood. The caste and social hierarchy, which saddles in the Indian society too, is well used by the playwright to showcase the pureness in Bhakti and truthfulness which finally triumphs. The story revolves around the bonding of two brothers i.e, Bharata and Bahubali, their ego, war for supremacy, reconciliation and sacrifice. It on another side shows the unconditional love between Gulakkayajji and her grandson. Younger generation who are the pillars of the country should adapt the morals of this play which is to be carried forward for generations.

The Director Born in Konchigeri in Gadag district of Karnataka, Malatesh Badigera is a well known actor, director and organiser of Kannada theatre . After graduating from Neenasam, he has developed skills in large scale stage construction – costume designing, make-up and most importantly, in mask-making. Life between Heaven and Earth

Life between Heaven and Earth was adapted according to the novel The True Story of Ah Q written by Lu Xun, a famous Chinese writer. It was a cold rainy night with a bleak autumn wind. A-kui was beheaded for the crime of 'Revolutionary Party'. His soul, not dispersed, was wandering in Wei Zhuang, his living place before death. The spirit looked back on his short life and searched for the cause of his miserable fate. He consulted the wise men, asked the noble lords in Wei Zhuang, and even inquired from his enemy, but there was no result. He was confused by his funny death and hated the coldness of the world. Finally, the spirit of the dead, self-questioning in confusion and anger, sighed helplessly about the life between Heaven and Earth.

Welcome Zindagi

THE PLAY

Welcome Zindagi examines the relationship between a Mumbai family- a father, son, and mother. An ordinary head clerk, Arun Ganatra, is on the verge of retirement. His wife, Bhanu Ganatra, is a simple but sensible woman. Their son, Vivek Ganatra, has recently completed his Masters in Business Administration. At the heart of the story is the father-son relationship. While secretly caring for each other, they have different mindsets that prevent them from communicating. The play delves into the complex emotions and psychological interplay that prevents people from accepting another's point of view. In all of this the mother is the bridging factor, doing her best to set things right. She is also a tongue-in-cheek Sutradhar (narrator) with the keenest sense of humor.

Director's Note

Welcome Zindagi is written by Saumya Joshi, a successful young playwright from Gujarat. I believe that theatre enthusiasts typically watch original Hindi plays and, translations and adaptations of western plays. Unfortunately, regional plays are no longer being translated into Hindi and tend to not get the recognition they deserve. The 1970's-80's were a time when Indian theatre was introduced to many plays written in regional languages and translated or adapted into Hindi. These plays enriched the theater scene and I feel it is time we reintroduced translations and adaptations from regional languages. Welcome Zindagi is my attempt at this goal.

The Director

Suresh Bhardwaj graduated from National School of Drama in 1980. He recently retired as Professor of Theatre Lighting from National School of Drama. He is the former Technical Director of Rangmandal, Bharat Bhavan, Bhopal. He is the founder member of Sambhav- a theatre group of Delhi. Along with theater he has also worked in films and television. He created and directed popular programmes like Aap Ki Adalat and Lekhu. He has conducted a number of theatre workshops throughout the country and abroad. He served as a member of the International Jury for UNESCO's meet of World Drama School in Sinaia. His major theatre productions include Adhe Adhure, Prem Samvaad, and Chatuskon. He is recipient of prestigious Sangeet Natak Akademi Award and Rosco (UK) award of Chaman Lal Memorial Society.

The Playwright

Saumya Joshi is a Gujarati poet, writer, playwright, director and actor. Joshi founded the Fade-In Theatre in 2010 and in September 2011 quit his job to pursue the theatre full-time. He is best known for his plays Welcome Zindagi, 102 Not Out and Dost Chokkas Ahin Ek Nagar Vastu Hatu, a musical black comedy based on the 2002 Gujarat Riots. In 2013 he was awarded the Chandravadan Chimanlal Mehta Award for his contributions to Gujarati theatre. He has also received the Yuva Gaurav Puraskar (2007), the Takhtasin Parmer Prize (2008- 09), the Ravji Patel Award, the Balvantray Thakor Prize and the Sadbhavna Award (2014).

Phantom

The Play

Phantom is the compilation of 15 different short pieces. It shows the best of the theatre group HILT's work in last ten years. Black light theatre is the very special theatre genre based on optical effects of darkness and UV lighting. This genre originated in The Czech Republic in 1955. Costumes and stage props shine in the dark creating visual illusions. Each piece of this show is has a different style – love, autumn, winter or Africa, India, Czech folklore and more.

Director's Note

To celebrate 10 years of my theatre group HILT Black Light Theatre is a very special moment in my life. I still remember how we started 10 years ago and I am grateful to all my actors and dancers. Especially to Stepanka Pencova, the lady who helped me lead our group all these years. My life is theatre and I cannot imagine living without it. It gives me an immense pleasure to be able to communicate a story to the audience. Sure, my work is still evolving and with every experience I feel my shows are more advanced. Phantom is the biggest part of my heart – it shows many different sides of my personality and of each person sitting in the audience as well.

The Playwright & Director

Theodor Hoidekr was born in 1980 in Czech industrial town Ostrava. While at the business school, Theodor was secretly visiting a dance school. The Restaurant of Many Orders

The Play

The Restaurant of Many Orders, is a dance-drama which focuses on the relationship between human beings and nature. Inspired by Japanese fairy tale writer, Kenji Miyazawa's novel by the same name, Hiroshi Koike created this production where three performers play the role of human beings and the beasts in the forests. Three young men go to the mountain for hunting. The weather becomes bad and there is a storm. They try to take shelter from rain but they can't find a good shelter. Suddenly, they see a restaurant, The Mountain Cat Inn Restaurant. On entering the restaurant the hunters get many written 'orders'. Feeling strange, they do what is written. Meanwhile, two of them realize that the third man is missing. They enter another room and find delicious food laid on the table. Eating greedily, they find a piece of cloth of the third hunter in the dish. They realize that they have eaten the body of their friend and run out of the restaurant facing the big storm.

Director's Note

The Restaurant of Many Orders, is a comedy plus a tragedy. Some people think it is a scary story because the hunters open the hidden door of the forest continuously. However, what makes this fact scary? That's my question. The world is human-centered, but is it of any benefit for us? This production is not the exact rendition of the story of the original novel by Miyazawa. I hope you not only follow the storyline, but see and feel the thought behind it.
